TWO SCHOOL BILLS PASS LOWER HOUSE

Assembly Would Allow Free High School Graduates to Enter U. W.

Pupils.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 15.—Two important educational bills passed the assembly yesterday afternoon, one of them being the Wehrwein bill, 720a, which has been most bitterly opposed by the university faculty. It provides for admission to the state university of all graduates of free high schools in Wisconsin meeting the requirements of the state superintendent of public instruction. Part of the bill sets forth the required curriculum as follows: "Provided that the course of study pursued shall have included two years of mathematics, two years of English, two ence and that the standings shall be of sufficiently high rank to indicate good work in the high school." The chief argument for the bill was that there have been two ineffectual systems of high school selection, the one based on the university for the purposes of admission to universities and colleges and the other by the state superintendent for the purpose of raising the standard of the high schools with a view of the utmost practical value of high school work for the 80 or more best high school pupils who are to attend a university.

The assembly ordered to engrossment the bill providing a penalty of life imprisonment for kidnapping, the

ASSEMBLYMEN ARE TO BE SUBPOENAED

And interesting times are expected at sessions of investigating committee next week.

Madison, Wis., May 15.—The senate investigation committee is preparing for interesting times next week. Subpoenas have been issued for Assemblymen Frank Smith, A. Twiss, William Reader, John T. Farrell, S. A. Towne and Thomas Ramsey. On Monday several persons who heard the talk about Assemblyman Domachewski being paid money will be called and the assemblyman above named will be given another opportunity to affirm or deny the stories which were current. Assemblyman Leander, it is expected, will be asked who finally paid for the special train which brought him to Madison from Milwaukee on March 2, in time to vote for Stephenson. Dr. Smith will be asked as to the truth of the stories that he received Stephenson's support in the hard campaign he was forced to put up in the primaries against three other candidates.

Additional testimony regarding the alleged payment of money from the Stephenson campaign fund to, or in behalf of Senator Lehr of Appleton was given to the investigating committee yesterday afternoon. E. J. Westphal, publisher of the Fox River Journal, said he was told by C. C. C. Wayland, a Stephenson satellite during the campaign, that $500 had been turned over to Lehr. The conversation with Wayland had to do with a bill which Westphal alleges is owed him by Lehr, and which Lehr partially denies. Much squabbling was had over the alleged debt, but it had no material effect upon the testimony or the course of the investigation.

The committee, after whom names

bers are lawyers, showed considerable surprise when Lehr, questioning Westphal, asked the publisher whether he had not placed certain accounts with Lehr's collection agency.

"Just a minute, Senator," interjected Senator Musling. "Were those accounts placed with you as an attorney?"

"Yes," answered Lehr. Somebody in the room mumbled something about "ethics" and "privileged communications" and the questioning ended abruptly.

OF EX-VICE PRESIDENTS OF PRESENT DAY.

ONLY TWO OTHERS LIVING

They Are Charles W. Fairbanks and Theodore Roosevelt.—Mr. Morton Hearty and Hale At Eighty.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, May 15.—Still fresh and vigorous in mind and sound in body, Levi P. Morton, the oldest living ex-Vice President of the United States, will celebrate his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary tomorrow. Besides Mr. Morton there are now living only three other men who have the position of Vice President of the United States, Adlai E. Stevenson, Theodore Roosevelt and Charles W. Fairbanks. Not only is Mr. Morton by far the oldest among his surviving colleagues, but, with one exception, he has already attained a greater age than any other former Vice President. The only exception was John Adams, the first Vice President of the United States, who died in 1826 at the ripe age of 90 years.

While Mr. Stevenson has reached the age of seventy-four, the other two surviving colleagues of Mr. Morton however, among the deceased former Vice Presidents; he survived the end of his term of office by thirty-one years, a longer period than shows the record of any other of the deceased former holders of that office. Mr. Morton will have to live until he is 100 years old to surpass Burr's record.

Levi P. Morton is a New Englander and the descendant of a family of clergymen. It may be due to a great extent to that fact that he has resorted to wealth and nobility to such Levi P. Morton may have inherited his taste for finance from that treasurer of the Pilgrim band. His father was a Congregational clergyman; Rev. Daniel O. When, at the age of sixteen years, he saw no hope of realizing his ambition to go to Dartmouth college, Levi P. Norton entered a country store at Enfield, Mass., where he worked until he had enough money to start a modest establishment of his own, at Hanover, N. H. In 1819, at the age of twenty-five he came to Boston and became a partner in a small dry goods house. Five years later he went to New York, where he joined a dry goods firm.

He failed a few years before the outbreak of the Civil war, but immediately started a banking business, appreciating that the rebellion would mean a great demand for financiers to handle the government loans. Mr. Morton founded the banking house of Morton, Bliss & Co., in New York, and Morton, Rose & Co., in London, and dealt largely in government bonds. Just before the close of the war, when he had accumulated a fortune,

Mr. Morton gave a dinner to the creditors of his former dry goods firm. Every one found under his plate a check for the amount still owing to him with interest. Mr. Morton's first course in politics was to

COMMENCE WORK OF REBUILDING

DORMITORY OF SCHOOL JUST AFTER COMMENCEMENT.

THE EVANSVILLE SEMINARY

Alma Mater of Many Noted Men Will Lay Out Thousands of Dollars in Improvements on Buildings.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, May 13.—Immediately following commencement week the work of reconstructing and rebuilding the Seminary dormitory will begin in earnest. W. W. Waterman of Chicago is the architect and will superintend the work. The plans call for an expenditure of between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars and it is thought that ten thousand of this amount can be easily raised in this city. Rev. H. D. Fay, the financial agent of the Seminary and Pres. L. B. Webb and some others, have been soliciting locally and state that they are meeting with encouragement on every hand. A number of our wealthy and prominent citizens have subscribed generously to the fund, several having given five hundred dollars each, and others two hundred dollars apiece, while many more have signified a willingness to help. Up to this time our people one year. Then A. L. Whitehead directed the work of the school for four years; A. H. Stilwell, three years; E. G. Durfitt, three years; C. M. Sanford, one year, and Rev. L. B. Webb has for the past three years been principal and worked hard for the success of the school, and his efforts coupled with the efficient work of Rev. H. D. Fay have done much to bring the school up to its present thriving condition. To meet the constantly increasing demands of the school a new building became a necessity and in 1881 the trustees decided to build and in January, 1890, a fine three-story brick structure which contains the assembly room, recitation rooms, and laboratory was completed. (This building is shown at the left of the picture.) Since then the old structure has been used as a dormitory. At the present time there is room for about thirty-five or forty, but after it is rebuilt it will probably accommodate twice that number. It will be three stories above the basement and will have a new fire-proof slate roof. The interior will be entirely new and will be fitted with all modern conveniences, electric lights, baths, etc. A new steam heating system will be installed at a cost of five thousand dollars or more and will warm both the old and new buildings. An entire set of new ceiling will be included in the present work and will add much to the beauty of the grounds. SHARP ATTACK ON UNIVERSITY LOBBY

By Attorney George C. Sutherland Was Feature of Commercial Club Dinner Last Evening.

State university methods were the subject of a rather searching inquiry at the monthly meeting of the Commercial club which was held at the Hotel Myers last evening. The discussion had its inception in some comments made by State Senator J. M. Whitehead, who is a member of the legislature's committee on claims, which passes upon the appropriations, and Attorney George C. Sutherland and Capt. Philp Rogers, member of the state board of regents, were the other leading participants.

Senator Whitehead opened his remarks with some allusions to the good roads propaganda. He said that under provisions now made the sum of $150,000 would be available annually for improving the highways, but that the expense of the commission would be $50,000, leaving $100,000 to be drawn upon by the 71 counties. The committee on claims and education had had their hands full the past week with the proposed Normal school appropriation. In view of the enormous outlays for the new capitol building and other state undertakings, it had been deemed advisable by some to go slow if taxes were to be kept within reasonable limits. The University forces had been lending weight what they could have it done for, an 8 per cent interest is charged up to the time of making up the annual tax rolls, and the bill added to the taxes on the property.

In the summer time no one can keep swine within the city limits with 16 rods of any dwelling except owners.

No garbage can be dumped within city limits. Ashes and rubbish must be removed by owners of property or legal notice will be served and if not observed they will be removed by the city and charged to owners.

An inspector will soon be appointed for the purpose of visiting premises and inspecting them, and he is authorized by law to enter upon any premises in the performance of his duty and there must be no interference with him.

These suggestions are offered in hopes that property owners will comply with them and thus aid in safeguarding the health of our city and making it more sanitary.

Anonymous communications by mail or phone will not be heeded; they look too much like spite work, and I find I have troubles enough of my own and am offending enough people, some of whom would, with pleasure, probably like to scalp me.

have pledged over five thousand dollars. The school is in charge of the Free Methodist and the rest of the money will be contributed by the denomination at large, this being the only school in charge of that denomination in Wisconsin, and one of eight in the United States. The first eight in the United States. The first plan was to tear down the old structure and erect a new building on the present site, but the purpose now is to renovate and modernize the old building and preserve the present architectural style in all the new work, and it will be done with a view to utility, symmetry and artistic beauty. The Evansville Seminary is one of the oldest educational institutions in Rock County, having been organized by citizens of Janesville as a stock company in 1855 and the old structure has long been a landmark, and only hard work and earnest pleading of some of the students of years ago by saved their Alma Mater from destruction. The bricks from the walls were built were manufactured here by Jacob West, one of the first settlers and founders of Evansville and the grounds were the gift of Hon. David L. Mills, for many years the leading attorney here, and the old place is not only cherished in the hearts of the people of Evansville, but is a pleasant memory to a number of eminent and useful people who at one time were students within its halls, among them being Pres. Van Hise, Senator La Follette, 12th Senator Pettigrew, Prof. Jackson of Nebraska, Wesleyan University, Hiram Andrews, J. Franklin Brown and many others whom we can point to with pride. For the first ten years of its existence the school was in charge of the Methodist Episcopal church and its first principal was Prof. R. O. Kellogg who was succeeded by Miss Marjette Cleveland who being followed by Martin Van Buren Shattuck. From 1887 to 1890 Prof. George W. Smith was principal and for three years thereafter C. Y. Gligor was in charge. In the fall of 1893 Rev. Henry Coleman was elected principal of the school and after four years of faithful work he was succeeded by Rev. John Hammond, who remained at the head until the school was placed under the supervision of the Free Methodist church when Prof. Bradley took charge of the institution and remained its principal for ten years. The school was then closed for a short time but was revived by the Free Methodists, and has since been conducted under the auspices of that society. Rev. J. E. Coleman, A. M. became the superintendent of the school at the time of its reopening which occurred in the fall of 1899 and under his efficient administration the institution regained much of its former popularity. He gave four years of the best years of his life working for its upbuilding and success. Prof. Coleman resigned on account of ill health and was succeeded by C. N. Bertels, who remained ers' course, or a department for those wishing to fit themselves for the ministry, and music. The business course will be made a specialty next year. A special feature of the school's work as recognized by Pres. Van Hise, Pres. Salisbury and other educators is that the seminary reaches a class of students whose needs are not met by the public school. There are those who have been denied educational advantages when young, and in more mature years seek a preparation for life's work. The seminary is constantly educating many of this class who make men and women of the strongest type. Then the moral supervision and influences of the school are its strongest claim for public favor. Evansville is a moral little city in which no license has ever been granted other for a liquor or a billiard saloon, and for that reason the temptations to the young are comparatively few and no better and water place can be found as a school home for the young people. The motto of the school being to "educate for Character." The advisability of adding one or two years of college work to the seminary course is under serious consideration and this feature will add greatly in the upbuilding of the school, as the present generation complete seminary or high school work when comparatively young and parents would feel much more like sending them into a small town for a year or two than to universities or colleges in larger cities. It is their intention to add this course at the opening of the next school year. There is also opportunity for a best of musical training. Miss Anna L. Boyce having been conducted this department for several years. The trustees hope to be able to build a building within a little north of the dormitory within the next two years. The management are working hard on an endowment plan by which they expect to raise fifty thousand dollars, eleven thousand of that amount they already have. In the future as in the past may the seminary continue to do its noble work, and may it have the hearty and generous support of the community and all interested in education.

Everything in Building Material

Here Is a Test For a Building That You Should Make Before Buying

Lay the block face up and pour on it all the water it will stand, and see how much of the water it absorbs. If it will absorb the water as fast as you pour it on, you may be sure that your house will be damp and cold, and in time the block will crack owing to freezing when it is soaked with moisture. If the face of all concrete building blocks were made "waterproof" as the Standard Hollow Concrete Building Block is made it would not absorb water very readily. This is just one of the big points of advantage which these blocks contain. There more. They cost 1c per running inch. If you are building, come in and learn more about them or drop us a postal.

HOT TEMPERS IN BATTLE OVER IRON

NEW YORK SENATOR WORSTED IN TILT WITH THE LA FOLLETTE.

MEMBERS IN PEEVISH MOOD

Bayley and Nelson Clash Over Texan's Whipped Conference with Aldrich—Tobacco Trust Subject of an Attack by Beveridge.

Washington, May 15.—Hot tempers and heated atmosphere make the battle over the iron schedules of the Aldrich tariff bill interesting in the senate. With the official thermometer registering 99 degrees in the shade the senators were peevish and some spilt blood.

A lot of bitterness was spilt into the record, and the weather man probably will have to bear the blame for letting Senator Root get into a scrap with Senators La Follette, Rayner and Money—in which he came off decidedly second best—and for the unkind things which Senators Bayley and Nelson hurled at each other when the latter objected to the Texan's request for a vote on the income tax on Monday.

Aldrich Gets Usual Victory.
The principal progress of the day was marked by the usual Aldrich victory over the combined Democrats and the insurgents, on the roll call by which the house rate on "round iron in coils or rods" was sustained. The vote was 42 to 35, 11 insurgents voting with the Democrats.

An amendment offered by Senator McLaurin from Mississippi to put all agricultural and carpentry tools on the free list died by a strict party vote. Final action was taken on eight uncontested sections, but several contests on various portions of the iron and steel schedule were set aside for to-day and the fight on these will last well into next week.

Root and La Follette Tilt.
The tilt in which Senator Root got tangled up with Senator La Follette, started when the latter accused the finance committee of not presenting sufficient information to enable the senate to vote intelligently on the bill. Senator Root declared the committee did not need to make any recommendations on sections of the house bill which it did not amend, and drew blood by the declaration that Senator La Follette "should confine himself to business-like statements and not indulge in declamations for home consumption."

He had stuck his fingers into a hornet's nest, and Senators La Follette, Rayner and Money riddled his "constitutional" argument. None of his Republican colleagues came to his rescue, and Senator La Follette went at him again by citing the fact that two days ago, Senator Root had himself demanded information from the committee on a schedule which it had not changed. For all of this, the only ballot which the junior senator from New York received, came in a statement from Senator Lodge that Senator Root "added lustre to the senate instead of having the senate add lustre to his name." But Senator Lodge side-stepped the argument.

Beveridge Hits Tobacco Trust.
Senator Beveridge proposed an amendment to the bill increasing the tax on tobacco and its products and charged that by continuing the short-weight packages of the Spanish war period the tobacco trust was reaping a harvest of $21,000,000 a year. The tilt between Senators Bayley and Nelson came after the former had asked that Monday be set aside for a vote on the income tax. Senator Aldrich, who had held a whispered conference with Senator Bayley before the suggestion was made, asked him to request at the same time that June 1 be set as the date for the final vote on the entire bill.

Nelson Assails Bayley.
But Senator Bayley could not get the unanimous consent necessary for the first proposition, and the entire matter was dropped. It was then that Senator Nelson, in filing his objection referred to the "seance" between Senators Aldrich and Bayley, and the latter unburdened himself about the "suspicions" of men with guilty consciences. He charged that the insurgents had agreed not to support any Democratic amendments, to which Senator La Follette took violent exception.

The defeat of Senator Bayley's proposition puts an end to all present attempts to hasten the final voting on the bill. The insurgents are by no means in a hurry to end the fight, and under the senate rule the majority is at their mercy. Besides Senator Aldrich and his immediate lieutenants, the greatest pressure for haste in the senate comes from some of the Democratic members, notably Bayley, Tillman and Bacon, who have offered to aid Senator Aldrich in forcing an early vote. The senate decided to begin next week's sessions at ten o'clock.

Engine 19, which has been completely repaired and put in first class condition, was sent on the road this morning in charge of Engineer Dudley and Fireman Fleming to be broken in. The improved wheel sheet, as designed by Martin McDermott, proved its efficiency and made its reputation during the first half hour. When the engine was first reversed, it was found that a bolt which held the spring hanger, was too long and struck the spokes on the drive wheel. Had the sheet been as it is on other engines, it would have been necessary to tear up the cab floor to remedy the defect. As it was, the fault was soon and repaired in a few minutes.

HEAR OWN FUNERAL SERMON.

Indiana Man Has Minister Preach Before He Dies.

Gaa City, Ind., May 15.—On his death bed Elias B. Burns, 83 years old, heard his funeral sermon preached. After having been advised by his physician that he could live only a few hours more, Mr. Burns summoned his minister, Rev. Henry Schwan, and 40 of his friends and neighbors and asked them to give him the satisfaction of attending his funeral service in his bedroom. Hymns were sung and Mr. Schwan preached a sermon after reading the eighth chapter of Romans. After the service the sick man seemed stronger, but later he relapsed into delirium.

Gay Day for Hotel Keepers.
Mobile, Ala., May 15.—Mobile is giving the members of the Hotel Men's Mutual Benefit association a jolly day. The visitors arrived from Atlanta this morning and were taken by steamer to Point Clear, where they were given an oyster roast and shore dinner, with negro cake-walking and dancing, and bathing. This evening a mask ball will be given in the Battle house.

Police Silence Emma Goldman.
New Haven, Conn., May 15.—Emma Goldman, who was to have delivered a lecture here, was prevented from carrying out her purposes by the police. Accompanied by Dr. Holtmann, she was admitted to the hall where the meeting was to have been held, but the police allowed no one else to enter.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

DID it ever occur to you that generosity might not always be a virtue? Or at least not always an expedient one?

I knew a mother once who was so generous that all her children were selfish.

She always insisted on eating all the crusts and doing the hardest, most disagreeable parts of the household work, and going without whenever there was going without to be done, and staying at home whenever there was staying at home to be done.

"The natural result" was that her children never got a chance to learn what fun it is to be self-sacrificing, and so her insistent selfishness and generosity did more harm than good.

There are women who are so obsessed with generosity that they give to outsiders who do not need it what they ought to keep for themselves and their own.

Last week when I was visiting one of my friends there was a rap at the door and in came her neighbor. She carried in her hand a sheet of biscuits fresh from the pan and piping hot, which, her face illumined with the pure joy of giving, she pressed on my reluctant friend.

Now I have always known my friend as a quiet, naturally reserved woman who preferred to mix very little with her neighbors, and I was naturally surprised.

But I was destined to be more so. She came towards me with a look of almost comical despair on her face.

"I wonder if I am just plain horrid and ungrateful," she said, "but that woman is becoming the bane of my life. She's a dear little soul. She has two big sons who adore and who adore her. She is so happy that she is always trying to make other people happy."

"Look at these," my friend continued, holding out the pan of biscuits. "This must be the fourth time this week she's given me biscuits, a whole pan, too. I know she bakes more than she needs or can well afford in order to do it, and it makes me uncomfortable. But what can I do?"

A place for everything and everything in its place might not be such a bad rule for vices and virtues as well as for desks and pantries.

The duke of Abruzzi attempts suicide in despondent moment over disappointment in his love affair with Miss Elkins.

Duke of Abruzzi, Miss Catherine Elkins and secondary peak of the Kanchenjunga group in the Himalayas, where the duke now is located in his climb to the top of the highest point on the globe.

Rome—The recent disappointment in the love affairs of the duke of Abruzzi and Miss Elkins are again the central topic of conversation in court circles. It is generally conceded that the duke undertook the hazardous trip only to forget the fair American girl who had so completely won him.

The guides who are with him send back reports that the utter disregard for his life makes the journey most dangerous and he is apt to meet with misfortune at any time. On one occasion in a fit of despondency, he is reported to have attempted suicide.

Such stories are exciting sympathy for the popular duke, even among those who opposed the match and have aroused general sentiment against the queen mother and the Duke and Duchess of Austria, who are now said to have been the real cause of the trouble.

DR. OSLER SAYS, "FIGHT DISEASE"

DR. OSLER URGES PUBLIC TO MAKE WAR ON TUBER-CULOSIS.

BRYCE PRAISES SCIENTISTS

British Ambassador Lauds Work for Humanity—Speaker Cannon Regards Play Grounds for the Children as Step in the Right Direction.

Washington, May 15.—Dr. William Osler, the noted physician whose old age theories attracted attention several years ago, in an address before the tuberculosis convention, declared it will take two or three generations to reduce the disease's ravages to the rate at which typhoid fever has been regulated. He said the public must be awakened to a greater sense of responsibility in combating the disease, which is no longer a problem of the doctors.

Other distinguished men who spoke were Ambassador James Bryce and Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives, both of whom urged the fostering of the idea of children's playgrounds as a means of keeping them in the open air as much as possible.

Osler congratulates Association.
Dr. Osler congratulated the association on the work it had done, the three principal things accomplished having been, he said, the awakening of the public, the loosening up of the money bags of the legislatures and of philanthropic persons, and the enlistment of men and women who are thoroughly in earnest in the campaign.

He dwelt at length upon the need of money to carry on the work, and favored small subscriptions ranging from a dollar to ten cents. "It was essential," he declared, that the citizens should get in the habit of contributing for a cause so great. One of the most important problems in dealing with the disease, he said, was in improving the social condition of the poor.

"Whether tuberculosis will be finally eradicated," he declared, "is even an open question. It is a foe that is very deeply entrenched in the human race. Very hard it will be to eradicate completely, but when we think of what has been done in one generation, how the mortality in many places has been reduced more than fifty per cent., indeed in some places 100 per cent., it is a battle of hope, and so long as we are fighting with hope the victory is in sight."

Bryce Praises Scientists.
Ambassador Bryce praised the men of science because, he said, they belonged to all the people. They were more of a link and bond of union between peoples than even men of letters, because, he said, "there are some men of letters who use their pen not for the purpose of promoting friendship, but rather of promoting dissension and distrust between different nations." He declared that no man of science ever used his results for any such unworthy purpose.

"There is no man of science," he continued, "who does not feel that his duty is to truth and to humanity and who does not feel inspired with the thought that it is for all humanity that he is laboring." He gave numerous statistics regarding the campaign in Scotland and Ireland against the white plague, showing that the death rate had been enormously reduced. He paid a high tribute to the medical officers of the United States in stamping out yellow fever from Cuba and characterized it as one of the greatest of scientific achievements.

Cannon "Defies" Osler.
Speaker Cannon made a characteristic talk and aroused the audience to laughter when, turning to Dr. Osler, he said: "Dr. Osler, I have reached the age of 81 and I shake my fist in your face." Dr. Osler laughed heartily at this deft of his old age theory.

Speaking seriously, the speaker harked back to the days of his childhood, when the science of medicine was in its infancy, when bathtubs were almost unheard of, and when the snow would sift through the cracks of the clapboards of the country home and cover those lying in bed before the time for rising.

"We had plenty of fresh air then on the Wahab and everywhere on the frontier before the railroads, and we didn't have to construct open porches," he said. He bade Godspeed to the medical profession for attempting to prevent disease. He favored those playgrounds for children, but urged that the legislator be dealt with gently if he did not do everything that was wanted of him "when you consider that much of his time must be used in making an assortment of the truth from the pretense."

Iowa's "Real Daughter" Dies.
Sioux City, Ia., May 16.—The one "real daughter" of the American revolution, who belonged to the Sioux City chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution, and one of the three "real daughters" in this city, Mrs. Emily S. Nettleton, aged 91, died at the home of her son, Edgar M. Nettleton.

Russia's "Robin Hood" Is Killed.
Moscow, Russia, May 16.—The noted robber chieftain Savitzky, the "Robin Hood" of the Russian revolution, has been killed by members of the rural guard. Savitzky, who was a high school student when he took to brigandage, had been the terror of the police for several years.

Joseph A. Goulden, Active in The
mittee.

New York.—A movement of national interest was originated in the office of Joseph A. Goulden at 180 Broadway last night when the Maine Monument association committee met and discussed plans looking toward the erection of a suitable monument for the heroes of the Maine disaster. Mr. Goulden and the members of the committee feel it is a burning shame that the United States has never in any way commemorated on American soil this most tragic event of recent American history.

Mr. Goulden is a prominent member of the G. A. R. and was chairman of the memorial committee of that organization in New York for six years. He was also secretary of the commission which erected the recently completed soldiers' and sailors' monument in New York. He was elected a member of congress from the Eighteenth New York district on the Democratic ticket and has become a national figure through his constant efforts and self-sacrificing work. His experience in the past makes him especially fitted for the work in charge in connection with the Maine monument.

Insult to Gobblerhood.

A Denton man is forcing a gobbler to do the "settin'" by keeping him drunk on corn soaked in kielick. Despite the necessity which seems to compel the owner to employ these unusual methods, we unhesitatingly declare the proceeding an outrage and an insult to the bird's gobblerhood.—Houston Post.

It Don't Pay.

The man was sitting on his front steps smoking his pipe after his day's work, when a pedestrian came along and halted to ask:
"Does Mr. Regan live here?"
"No, sir," was the reply.
"Does Mr. Thomas live here?"
"No, sir."
"Does Mr. O'Kelly live here?"
"No, sir."
"Well, does Jim McGraw live here?" continued the stranger.
"He does not," was the answer.
"Nor Mr. White?"
"I'm sorry."
"So am I, if it disappoints you. May I ask what you wanted of the gentlemen you have named?"
"You may. I wanted to lick at least one of them out of his boots, but it's my hard luck to find I'm on the wrong street."
"As to that, sir, you needn't go away disappointed. I'll give you a twist myself."
"Will you? That's very kind. Come on."
"After a conflict lasting 10 minutes the stranger went his way, and the other returned to the steps to be told by his wife:

"Toin, your nose is broke."
"Yes."
"And you've lost teeth."
"I have."
"And you'll be bunged-up for days."
"I will. It never did and never will pay to accommodate every stranger that comes along, and I'm going to quit."
JOE KIRK.

ON TO HIM.

BOSTON SOCIETY WOMAN RECONCILED TO HER HUSBAND AFTER THREE YEARS SEPARATION THROUGH HER SON.

MRS. JAMES F. SHAW AND HER SON.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Stranger than fiction is the story of Mrs. James F. Shaw's life and experience of the last three years. Mr. Shaw was brought up in luxury, being the daughter of a wealthy brewer of Portsmouth, N. H. H. Fisher Eldridge. She married James F. Shaw, president of the Interborough railroads of Boston, and was for many years a social favorite in Boston society. Mrs. Shaw and her husband became estranged and she deserted him for H. Keno Marble, who had been their chauffeur for some time. Mrs. Shaw was a woman of high education and refinement, while Mr. Marble could scarcely be considered her equal in any way and the wonder is that he should have appended to her so strongly as to make her give up a life of luxury and ease for his menial hand to mouth life.

When she deserted her husband Mrs. Shaw took with her their son and for a time resided in and around Boston. Many attempts were made by Mr. Shaw to secure the lad and after all peaceful attempts had failed he resorted to kidnapping and four times during the last three years have attempts been made by Mr. Shaw's employees to kidnap the boy. The son is now 11 years old, blue-eyed and pretty and says he wants to remain with his mother, but still loves his father. That is the key-note of the reconciliation.

As soon as it was definitely found that Mrs. Shaw was living with the chauffeur at Santa Barbara, Mr. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw's father, Mr. Eldridge, started for the west and arrived here this week. During the trip across the States telegraph wires were kept hot by messages between the attorneys of Mrs. Shaw and Mr. Shaw. They were able to safely predict a reconciliation upon the arrival of the husband and father in Santa Barbara. When Mr. Shaw started west he was determined to take up a bitter court fight for the possession of the boy, but while he was speeding west the woman's father had brought the husband to a more conciliatory attitude.

The boy was taken from his mother Friday, when Los Angeles detectives, accompanied by a Fresno attorney, broke into the apartments occupied by Mrs. Shaw and H. Keno Marble in a modest hotel in the lower portion of this city. At first she agreed to turn the boy over to her father, but he was appointed as guardian. Upon further thought she agreed to place him in the keeping of Chief of Police Ross of Santa Barbara until a conference with her husband and father could be arranged.

The discovery by the Los Angeles detectives has created a profound sensation here and the moving picture theater operated by the eloping chauffeur and known as "La Petite Moving Picture Theater" has been benefited greatly by the scandal. Following the raid on the couple's apartments Mrs. Shaw seemed apparently unmoved and the next day calmly sold tickets to the curious who went to the little theater to see her. There is everything about the woman to suggest culture and a life of ease. She has never made effort to meet people locally, but to those who have sought acquaintance she has declared that she cared to make no friends. The little theater probably will be sold, as it has not been doing a thriving business since being purchased by Marble some months ago, and he has expressed a desire to return east.

EMBROIDERY STILETTO

One Instrument Pierces Practically Any Size Holes Desired.

A man in New Jersey has earned the gratitude of all women who do embroidery by designing an embroidery stiletto, which will pierce any size holes in a fabric. By any size, of course, is meant any of the sizes used in that sort of work. The device consists of a small red instrument with a sharp point and equipped with a handle. Along this red runs a gauge device held in position by a screw. The nearer this gauge is to the point of the stiletto, the smaller the hole made, and, conversely, when it is run back toward the handle, the circumference of the holes may be increased to that of the red itself. It can thus be made to pierce any size holes, from small circles to comparatively large circles. Heretofore, unless a woman had an assortment of stilettoes of various sizes, and few had such a variety, only one size hole could be made in a fabric with any degree of accuracy, and neat, graduated circles were found only in bought designs.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (Incorporated)

"Certainly I shall tell her," says he.

"When is the next train to Eastwick?"

He went to the school that afternoon, and stayed at the Bay View house over there that night. Next day, before I left the island, Hartley comes rowing over with Scudder. He was feeling chipper as could be and, except for his arm in a sling, you wouldn't have known there was anything the matter with him.

About eleven or so that forenoon

Eureka comes running out to the hen-yard where I was. Her face was on the broad grin.

"They're coming," says she. "The whole of 'em!"

"Who?"

"Why, Miss Agnes and Miss Talford. Noto Scudder is rowing 'em and Mr. Van Brunt is along, too."

And so they was. I could see the dory half way across already.

"Hooray!" I sing out. "Let's tell Hartley."

"Don't you dare tell him," she orders. "He's in the house. You let him stay there. It's your job to meet that boat and keep the rest of 'em out of the way."

I was at the beach when the dory landed. Miss Talford and Van got out first. Then comes Agnes Page. She stopped up to me and held out her hand.

"Good morning, Mr. Pratt," she says. "I'm very glad to see you."

"Same here, ma'am, I'm sure," says I. "How's Rodney?"

"Who? Dennis? Oh, he's almost well. We left James in charge of the children. Are you all well here?"

"Yes, ma'am. He's doing first-rate. You'll find him in the dining room."

She reddened up like a climbing rose-bush in June, but she left me and headed for the house. The minute she stepped her foot on the porch, that wise critter Eureka dodged out of the kitchen door. She knew her business, that girl did, and whether it had come to her by instinct or from Home Comforter reading don't make an atom of difference.

About 20 minutes after that I happened to have an errand in the kitchen. I made a dilemma of a racket on purpose when I went in, but 'twas good work wasted. Hartley and the Page girl was standing by the parlor window looking out, and didn't appear to hear a sound. They'd left the doors open and I could see 'em. Martin hadn't only one whole arm, but he knew what to do with that.

open and I could see 'em. Martin hadn't only one whole arm, but he seemed to know what to do with that.

Van Brunt came into the kitchen after a drink of water. He saw the tableau in the parlor. When we was outside again he spoke.

"Well," he says, with a kind of sigh, "that settles it. And yet, by George I'm glad. Yes, sir; it's as it should be and I'm thoroughly glad of it."

I couldn't think of nothing to comfort him, poor fellow. But I squeezed his hand hard. I guess he knew what I thought of him and his self-sacrifice.

And yet, a couple of hours later, when I told Eureka, she didn't seem to think so much of it.

"Humph!" she says. "Self-sacrificing's all right, but you look here."

She took me by the arm and led me to the washstand window. Down by the cove on the beach was Van Brunt and Margaret Halford, walking up and down together. They was both laughing and acting perfectly contented.

Eureka gave me a nudge and a wink.

"I told you I had my ideas about him," says she.

The Fresh Air girls went back to Eastwick that afternoon. When they had gone Van turns to me.

"And now, skipper," says he, slapping his hands together briskly; "now then for packing up, and back, back to Little old New York. 'Oh, Uncle John! isn't it nice on Broadway?' or words to that effect."

They was all going together; the Heavenly Twins and Lord James and the Fresh Air girls and all their tribe. Rodney's sickness and the worry that it brought had made Agnes and Miss Talford anxious for the city, where doctors was plenty and green apples scarce. And the Twins was pluing for what Van called "the intoxicating degeneracy of an effete (whatever that is) civilization."

We packed up. That is to say, me and Eureka packed up, while the Heavenlies superintended and enjoyed themselves. Scudder's face, when he heard that his private gold mines was going to leave, was a sight to see. But, after a couple of lengthy interviews with the Twins, he seemed to feel better.

"I shall miss 'em terrible," he says to me. "But this world's a valley of dry bones, anyhow, ain't it, Pratt?"

"Valley of dry bones?" and "Hoosier to the ark of safety" was his pet words when he testified in prayer-meeting.

"I guess so," I says. "Still I wouldn't kick if I had your knack of getting double price per pound for the bones. You've managed to fertilize with 'em pretty well, Noto."

He fetched a sigh. "They're such nice obliging fellows," he says. "And such good hands at business. Never no beating down nor jockeying for a trade. I always feel perfectly safe in dealing with 'em."

I callate that statement wa'n't exaggerated. Most likely a shark feels the same way about dealing with a school of porpoise.

Noto had agreed to take back the hens and the pig, as an accommodation. He was to pay three dollars for the hog and the fowls was boys into scales for good measure. There was a lease of the island, too, that had to be canceled. Them simple-minded Tea Leaders had, in the first favor of Naturalness, signed a lease on Horse-foot bar to run till November. Now that their pulps was normal again they wanted to break that lease, and the job was considerably more painful and expensive than breaking Hartley's arm had been. But Noto let 'em break, though I thought he'd break them before he got through.

Him and Eureka and me had a good many talks about the Twins when we was alone together. The last of these talks we had on the afternoon of the day after the grand final emigration. Lord James was over on an errand and he was in the kitchen with us. Eureka began the talk.

"I ain't quite made up my mind whether they're really crazy or not," she says, referring to the Heavenlies.

"They don't act much more loony than some of the curls and such in books. And yet they must be some out of their minds or they wouldn't do such fool things. Once they was all for living poor and Natural. Now they're all the other way. Switching 'round like that is a sure sign of weakness in the top stories."

"Most city folks act to me some crazy," says I. "And, perhaps these two, being the fondest kind, is crazier than others. Maybe the higher up you go the loonier they get. I read in a paper once about how some rich big bug give a swell dinner to a pot monkey. The Twins are Solomon alongside of him. And, anyhow, they're mighty nice young fellows. Money may have got to their heads, but their hearts is in the right place."

"That's a question of hearts," says Scudder. "Way I figger it out the Almighty sends 'em down here on purpose. We poor folks alongshore don't have much chance to earn an honest living, and so the Lord takes pity on us and makes men like those two get cracked and hanker to live in the sand and spend money. 'You put your trust in the Hicker Power. He evens matters up in the long run.' His lordship broke in then; and my! but he was toplofty and scornful.

"Crazy yourselves!" he sniffs. "My 'eavens, I've done some traveling in my time, with Lord Enry and the rest; I've been all over. And never in my life 'ave I seen such a Cawd-for-saken country as this, or such a blooming lot of ignorant 'ayseeds as is 'ere. Why, you don't know 'ow to live at all and yet you're proud of it. You 'avout no conveniences, and you've no manners. Lord 'elp you, I say! You're all crazy together, and don't know 'ow to act in good society. Mr. Van Brunt and Mr. Artley is gentlemen, and what you call their craziness is nothing but the eccentricities of gentlemen. And if you think they're eccentric! Why compared to some I've worked for, like Lord Enry—"

"Twins high time to stop him. 'But they're so crazy loose with their money,'" says I.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 15, 1869.—The Fire Last Night.—An alarm of fire was sounded last night about 1 o'clock. It was caused by the burning of a shanty a short distance from the roundhouse of the C. & N. W. P. Railway. The loss was trifling.

Our Fair Trade.—It may not be generally known that Janesville has an extensive fair trade. But it is so, nevertheless. Melnyre has already shipped this year 40,000 muskrat skins besides a good many of the outside garments of other wild animals.

A Beautiful Banner.—The Concordia (German Musical Society) of this city have just received from Chicago, a most beautiful banner. It is made of two thousand of heavy blue silk, richly trimmed with gold fringe. On one side in gold lettering is "Concordia, Janesville, Wis., organized March 27th, 1866." On the reverse side, in German, is "Gedacht only bloss-charge."

Some in song." The whole thing is in rare, good taste, conforming to credit upon the liberality of the Concordia.

Arrested for Playing a Lame Hand.—Last evening a fellow who evidently had the old chap's advice to his son, "don't play a lame hand," to get money honestly if you can—but get it, "sat down quietly in a saloon to play a few cards for some greenbacks. His companion produced a pile of illustrated paper valued at $100. Presuming it would be his after the play, the fellow thought it scarcely worth while to waste time in throwing the pasteboards, and consequently grabbed the pile and made off. The loser didn't like the method of procedure, and showed his displeasure by complaining to an officer, who attempted to arrest the playmate for sudden wealth. He refused to come down gracefully and an athletic fellow took him by the collar of his coat and set him out on the pavement where the officer took him in charge.

vanished. He no longer has control of the banks, steamboat lines, tea business and real estate which were his. He is without money to pay his debts. His interests in the Consolidated Steamship company, which he had for he is in debt and he can't pay judgments against him. More than the $22,000,000 has been blown. All he could get when his credit was high was gone with it. For instance, he owes E. J. Derynd more than $2,300,000. That is, in the time since October, 1907—a year and a half—the former tea king has lost probably $25,000,000, to say nothing of the prison sentence that is hanging over him. All of those facts came out in a disposition made when he was questioned by Solomon Hanford, counsel for Edward C. Jones, who had a judgment of $171,275 against the former tea king. Mr. Jones learned no more than that he could not get his money.

This examination which was conducted under an order from supreme court from Justice O'Gorman was held in the Tombs and showed beyond doubt that he did not have an available asset which had not been turned over to his creditors.

Apparently, it appears to be pretty hard for one to get about very fast or very far in this world without being willing to make promises.

CANCER IS CURABLE

By my method. I use no knife or X-Ray. During my nineteen years of practice I have cured many cases of cancer and in not a single case has there been a recurrence. I guarantee to refund every cent paid me in case of a recurrence. I can give you the best of references as to my personal character and financial stability. The following letter is from a patient whom I cured and bespeaks his appreciation of my services:

Dr. G. H. Webster, Janesville, Wis.
Dear Doctor:—I want to tell you how thankful I am for the cure of the dreadful cancer on my lip. The way you remove cancers without a knife or X-Ray and without the loss of one drop of blood by the patient is wonderful. All who suffer with a cancer I advise to go to you for a cure. I consider no price is too large to pay for a cure. I give you the liberty of using my name where it will aid the unfortunate sufferers from cancer to find a cure. I am, respectfully,
JACOB BICK, Hayward, Wis.

The above letter is one of many unsolicited testimonials and endorsements which I have on file. Before deciding upon treatment let me examine your case. A consultation and examination is free. Write for a circular.
